Where Do I Drop?

by Jack Pultorak, FSGA Director of Rules and Competitions

At the recent High School Championships on the South Course of the PGA Golf Club in Port St Lucie, I was summoned to the ninth hole for a ruling.

On the right hand side of the fairway, a player's tee shot had come to rest in an area of ground under repair due to damage from the recent hurricanes. The player was entitled to relief under Rule 25-1b. We established his nearest point of relief and determined the area in which he would be allowed to drop his ball if he elected to take relief.

The player asked me that if he dropped the ball and his stance would be on the nearby cart path, what could he do. I told him that if that happened, he would then be entitled to take relief from the cart part (Rule 24-2b) which may put him right back into the abnormal ground condition he originally wanted to avoid. And thus, Decision 1-4/8 from The Decisions of the Rules of Golf; affectionately known as the "ping pong" decision.

The player lifted his ball and proceeded properly by dropping his ball no nearer the hole and within one club-length of his nearest point of relief. I pronounced his ball in play.

Now the player was in a position such that he was standing on the nearby cart path. He then determined his nearest point of relief from the cart path and dropped the ball in the prescribed dropping area and sure enough, it rolled to a position such that he once again had interference from the ground under repair.

It appeared that this could go on all day, back and forth, if not for Decision 1-4/8!

According to the Decision, the player was allowed to find the nearest point of relief that avoided interference from both the ground under repair and the cart path that was not in a hazard or on a putting green and drop the ball no nearer the hole and within one club-length of that point. That point happened to be over in the fairway. He dropped the ball and made a great birdie on the ninth hole.

The important thing to remember is that as of January 1, 2000, you are not allowed to skip both steps and go directly to the point that avoids both conditions. The influence of the R & A was apparent in the Rule change for 2000 as the element of chance is introduced as to where the ball might end up after each drop by going through both steps.

Remember, it pays to know the Rules. Knowing the Rules of Golf can help you save strokes and enjoy the game of golf.
